Drayton Valley and District Museum open for summer

Martha Lulla
Western Review

The Drayton Valley and District Museum is ready for the summer season after being closed since the long weekend in May.

Although lack of staff hampered the museum's ability to be open until now, a regular schedule started last weekend and the museum will now be open daily from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

"It's supposed to [be] open May long weekend. We did open, but we didn't have enough staff to carry [on] so we had to shut it down, but it will open from this weekend. It'll be on from this weekend to September long weekend," said Gordon Davidson, along time volunteer with the society.

Davidson confirmed two people have been hired to make sure they are achieving a standard the county wants, and they're still looking for one more staff member.

The Drayton Valley and District Historical Society approached the Town of Drayton Valley and Brazeau County at a joint council meeting in December, asking the municipalities to consider taking over operation and maintenance of the museum from the aging volunteer society.

The society indicated it would like to take on more advisory capacity.

Since then Brazeau County has agreed to take on the wages of summer staff and the town is assisting with maintenance.

Davidson said the society has hired staff, but would like clearer direction on how to proceed to make sure they are achieving a standard the county wants, and they're still looking for one more staff member.

"The town is not only looking at financials, but caring the grass for us. That relieves us of one responsibility," he said.

Davidson confirmed the museum was closed for about a month between May long weekend and the past weekend.

The society would welcome more volunteers.

"I think it's a shame that people don't step up and help us out," he said.

"There are a lot of folks down there. There are many people in this town, with the size of the town, they don't know where it is. It takes you only $2 for a tour to go through it," he added.

In the meantime, the society continues to work on preserving the area's history and accepting building donations, preferably in the mid 50s.

"We could use more buildings. We're running out of buildings if anyone would like to donate. Preferably in the mid 50s because that's what our articles are all about," he said.

Davidson confirmed the museum was closed for about a month between May long weekend and the past weekend.

The society would welcome more

Drayton Valley RCMP briefs

MAN FACING
WEAPONS CHARGES

A man will be in court facing a number of charges related to firearms. In the early morning hours of June 6 a Drayton Valley officer was out on patrol, where he saw a man launched over a bag. When the officer tried to talk to the man he fled on foot. When the officer located him in the back yard of a residence and confronted him, the man dropped the bag and, according to RCMP, became combative. At that point the officer noticed one of the items the man had dropped was a sword or short gun.

At the same time the suspect reached into his waistband. At that point the officer displayed his taser and the man was arrested.

He is now facing charges of unauthorized possession of a firearm, resisting arrest, carrying a concealed weapon, possession of a weapon for a dangerous purpose and careless use of a firearm.

SUSPECTED THIEF ARRESTED

Members of the Drayton Valley RCMP assisted evaluating officers in locating a suspect on June 11. The suspect was believed to be responsible for theft from a business in Edmonstone and fled into the Drayton Valley detachment area. Local members were able to help locate and arrest the suspect in the area of the Whistler Road. The suspect was arrested.

IPAD TRACKING
LEADS TO CHARGES

A man and a woman have been charged with possession of stolen property and drug-related charges after two search warrants were executed earlier this month.

Police obtained the search warrants as the result of a complaint of a stolen iPad. The technology allowed the stolen iPad to be tracked and the investigation led police to a holiday trailer close to where the signal for the iPad was identified. Police obtained a search warrant and Cpl. Marcia Mc Dermott said stolen property was found. As a result of that search warrant police also requested a separate search warrant for drugs, which also resulted in charges.

Mc Dermott said that the recovery of stolen property to its proper owner is made easier if owners have records of the serial numbers of their possessions.

CALL FROM HOTEL RESULTS
IN DRUG CHARGES

A woman is facing charges after Drayton Valley RCMP responded to a complaint of an unwanted person at a local hotel on May 25. That morning police attended the hotel. While there they found a woman, who had not been the source of the original complaint, who was wanted on warrants. She was also found in possession of a significant amount of drugs. Police then obtained a search warrant for the room she was staying in. As a result of the search warrant drug paraphernalia was found.

The woman is charged with possession of methamphetamine and possession of a controlled substance for the purpose of trafficking.

COMPANY TO BE WORKING IN HAMLETS

Drayton Valley RCMP wants to advise residents who live in the Violet Grove and Lodgepole areas that representatives from Black Gold Emergency Planners will be in those areas and also visiting some residences.

The two men are expected to be working in the area between June 16-30. The company made the RCMP aware of their plans in the event residents became concerned and contacted the.

Cpl. Marcia Mc Dermott said the representatives should have identification showing they are from Black Gold Emergency Planners.

COMMUNITY SHOWS
SUPPORT IN WAKE OF
MONCTON SHOOTINGS

The Drayton Valley and Brazeau County community took the time to reach out to local RCMP officers after three officers were killed and two others injured in Moncton, NB on June 4.

Drayton Valley RCMP Cpl. Marcia Mc Dermott said the detachment and its officers received flowers, food and well wishes from the community.

On June 10, the day regional funeral services were held for the three officers killed — Cst. Dave Ross, Cst. Douglas Larche and Cst. Fabrice Gervaudin — the Drayton Valley detachment held a ceremony for members and families in front of the detachment.

VISITORS COME OUT FOR OPEN HOUSE

It was another successful open house for the Drayton Valley RCMP detachment last Wednesday. Local students and members of the public came to the detachment and took part in tours, talked to local officers and representatives from a number of other organizations committed to community safety.

Cpl. Marcia Mc Dermott said the detachment had a great turnout for the annual event. As well as giving the public a chance to listen with RCMP it's also a good way to showcase all the partnerships and organizations the RCMP work with, she noted.

(From left) EPBR Parks Council Executive Director Ryan Edwards, EPBR Parks Council Board Chair Rob MacIntosh, Keyera President David Smith, Drayton Valley Community Foundation Executive Director Brandy Fredrickson and Drayton Valley Community Foundation Board Chair Alex Blais were on hand June 13 as Keyera announced donations to the local organizations.

EPBR Parks Council, DVCF receive support from Keyera

Mamta Lulla
Western Review

Last week energy company Keyera dipped into its pocket in support of two local organizations.

Keyera made the announcement of a $75,000 donation to the Eagle Point-Blue Rapids Parks Council (EPBR) and $10,000 to the Drayton Valley Community Foundation (DVCF) last week as a way to give back to the community where the company's employees live and work.

"It's something that Keyera wants to do is to support the communities and where our employees work and live and where our facilities are in the Drayton Valley area," said Keyera President David Smith last Friday at the event to announce the donations. "We have over 300 employees. This is an important area for our employees and for Keyera. We have plans in continue to invest and grow."

Drayton Valley Devcon M.A. Diana McQueen, local dignitaries, Keyera representatives and supporters of the two community organizations were on hand for the announcement.

The $75,000 commitment to the EPBR Parks Council will extend over a three year period.

Parks Council Environmental Education Co-ordinator Robyn Anderson said the funding will go towards upgrading, as well as developing new programs.

"This is a great opportunity. Great partnership for Keyera and (the) Parks Council to really change the way that education has been delivered and use the parks council skills and also the skills of teachers and get kids outside," agreed Parks Council Executive Director Ryan Edwards.

The contribution to the DVCF will continue to support the community for years as the principle will remain with the foundation and the interest generated will be donated back to the community, said Board Chair Alex Blais.

"So the interest will be spent to whatever charitable organization they deem fit at the end of the year," he said. "It sounds like a very promising relationship, which is great. There's great excitement around the Keyera Energy Endowment Fund," said DVCF Executive Director Brandy Fredrickson. "Just a lot of excitement about how can they build it, how can they engage their employees."

Smith said Keyera's presence in the area has grown even more with the recent acquisition of the Cynthia Gas Plant. The transaction of the gas plant completed on May 1.

He said he sees the Cynthia Gas Plant as a major accomplishment and that the company will continue to take similar steps on an ongoing basis.

"We're very pleased to be part of the team to make Drayton Valley (the) wonderful community, that it is, and to continue to see this as a place for our employees to live and to work," he said.

Olympian hopes to bring athlete mentors to Drayton Valley classes

Classroom Champions set to come to area in 2014/2015 school year

Lesley Allan
Western Review

Mentors often play an important role in encouraging students to achieve their best and work toward setting goals for a bright future.

Mentors come in many shapes and forms, but a new type of mentor will be coming to the Drayton Valley/Rocky Mountain House area in the new school year, as funding provided by Penn West Exploration will bring Classroom Champions (C.C.) into five area classrooms.

"Community investment is a fundamental part of Penn West corporate culture and it's the goal of our community investment program to align the interests of the company with those individuals in communities that are impacted by its operations and activities," explains Greg Moffat, manager of public affairs, as to why Penn West wanted to support a program that connects students with Olympic and Paralympic athletes.

"The uniqueness around Olympic and Paralympic athletes mentors, the incorporation of technology in the classroom to help deliver the curriculum, the goals of the program are to support those children and expose them to attributes that make athletes successful. Those are skills that every child should be exposed to and in this case we're very happy to be supportive of the program and its role in your area," he shares.

Started in 2009 by U.S. Olympic gold medalist Steve Mesler and his sister, C.C. grew from gipsy the pair perceived in the way athletes were used to inspire students and work with them as mentors.

"We felt that the classic school visit, which was to go to a school, give a talk, leave and never see those kids again, just wasn't a big impact," shares Mesler, president and CEO of C.C. "You give kids a fun experience, but what's their real learning? So we thought we could do it better."

Targeting students in kindergarten through to Grade 8, C.C. brings Olympians, Paralympians and Olympic/Paralympic hopefuls into the classroom using videos and live chats.

Described as a sort of 21st century pen pal, the athletes teach students "about the hard work of training, goal setting, competition and perseverance by using video lessons and live video chats, which help to engage students not only with the athletes, but the life goals necessary for success."

"We know that with repetition comes learning," says Mesler. "Being able to have new technology and have a system where there's repetitive amount of interactive learning, which would build a relationship so that the kids are able to know and trust that athlete, in when we see real learning happens and that's what Classroom Champions has turned into."

"We (Mesler and his sister) were young and I was getting to do this thing that the 10-year-old in us would have dreamt about and we want to be able to share that," he continues. "We know how much work it took to get there and we know that generally students just saw two and a half weeks of television during the Olympics, but they really didn't understand that there's a process and there's a life process to whether it's going to be Olympics or having a career. It takes a long time and we wanted to be able to teach that through the knowledge that Olympians have."

Originally started in the U.S., since its inception its success is not only seen in the fact that it has spread down into Costa Rica and up into Canada, but more significantly in the classrooms of schools and the successes of student participants.

"We see amazing results," says Mesler. "We started in the U.S. in 2009, this past (school) year was our first year in Canada. We see increased engagement in school and we see increased perseverance skills. Kids are internalizing the things that their athletes are teaching them, whether they want to be a teacher, a scientist, or a doctor, or God forbid, a bobsledder (Mesler's gold medal sport), they're learning the skills it takes to get there."

"100 per cent of our teachers say that it improved their classroom culture and when you have an improved classroom culture that means kids are defending each other, they're not picking on each other as much, and they're believing that something bad happens they understand that that's just step on the very to having success," he continues explaining. "So we're seeing some amazing impacts on the kids."

For using on life skills, Mesler explains that the program is unique in the fact that it uses athletes to talk to youth about the same issues they would discuss with adults, including the very topics teachers try to instill in their students.

"I do a lot of speaking myself and I would be invited to go and speak to corporate (groups), adults and I'd be asked to speak about setting goals, overcoming obstacles, and perseverance and then I'd be asked to go speak to kids and I'd be asked to talk about fitness and health, which are valuable things for kids to learn, but why are we talking to our kids in a different manner than we're talking to the adults?" he asked. "These are the things that teachers want to teach, they want to teach kids how to goal set because they understand that they can apply that to every single subject in the curriculum. So our Olympians and Paralympians become partners with the teachers within the learning environment and they open up the conversations that are maybe harder to have."

"How do you talk to kids about fair play without sounding preachy? Well when you're an Olympian talking about fair play, it's exciting to talk about it," Mesler continues. "So we make these conversations a lot easier for teachers to have."

For the first year of a four-year commitment Penn West has made to support these learn, five classes within Drayton Valley and Rocky Mountain House will share an Olympian or Paralympian for an entire school year.

Understanding that this will likely leave many classes disappointed, Mesler says that it's only the beginning and that with the continued support of sponsors, as well as mentors, the program is expected to continue growing as long as the demand is there.

"Right now we actually have more athletes that want to be involved than we have the capacity to handle, which is a wonderful problem to have," he says. "We've got some great athletes lined up, we haven't released that lineup yet, but we've got some great Canadian athletes and in this past year we've had people like Hayley Wickenheiser, Sam Edney, Lucas Makowsky, and next year a couple of those winter athletes are coming back, and then we're bringing on some summer athletes next year as well as we point towards Rio."

"Unfortunately we're going to have more teachers apply than we're able to accept, but that's a good thing because that allows us to go back and say 'hey the demand is there and we want to be able to do this more,'" he adds.

For more information on Classroom Champions, and how to connect, motivate, and educate any classroom visit www.classroomchampions.org/DraytonValley/AMT.

Teachers interested in possibly bringing the program into their classroom have until June 22 to submit an application, which can be found at www.classroomchampions.org/apply.

MAN GETS TIME SERVED FOR HAVING BRASS KNUCKLES

A man who spent the equivalent of 31 days in jail before pleading guilty to unauthorized possession of a weapon was given credit for time served last week.

On Jan. 22 around 2:40 a.m. members of the Drayton Valley RCMP were on patrol investigating a report that had come in the drive as they were on patrol.

An officer heading west on 56 St. noticed a man walking in the same direction. The officer stopped to ask if he had seen anything suspicious in the area. During the course of conversation the man said he had been out with friends and was trying to find his way back to his hotel. He told the officer he wasn't sure where it was since he was from out of town. The officer offered to drop the man off at the hotel. He accepted. Before the man got in the police car the officer ran a check on him and found the man, identified as Harrison Godwin, had outstanding arrest warrants from another jurisdiction. He was arrested on the warrants. During a subsequent search a set of brass knuckles in a black bag were found. Godwin told the officer he found the bag on the side of the road.

He was charged with unauthorized possession of a weapon.

Godwin didn't appear in court in person last week, but a lawyer entered a guilty plea to the charge on his behalf. Judge Marilyn White heard that Godwin had been in custody on the charges for the equivalent of 31 days (at a credit of one and a half days per day served) before entering his plea.

White sentenced Godwin to 31 days in jail on the charge, with credit for time spent in pre-sentence custody.

Preservation of local history vital role of museum

This week the Drayton Valley and District Historical Society Museum will begin its summer run and be open daily for visitors.

Tucked away behind the Omplex, it's an important facility in Drayton Valley and Brazeau County that many residents may not even realize exists. That's something that should be corrected.

The function of any museum is to preserve history and also make it accessible for those who didn't live it. Although the history of this region may be short compared to other areas, it is still significant. The Drayton Valley/Brazeau County area has exploded in the decades since the discovery of oil here. That discovery brought swift changes and an influx of people. In an area that still sees a high volume of people coming and going it seems even more important to capture and preserve what we were and what we're becoming.

The driving force behind the museum is the Drayton Valley and District Historical Society. For years they've operated the museum, catalogued artifacts and tried to share the stories of the area with others. However, like so many volunteer organizations, their membership is aging and they're in urgent need of an influx of new volunteers with a passion for this area and its history.

Late last year the society made an appeal to Brazeau County and the Town of Drayton Valley to take on the tasks that have become too arduous for the volunteers. It looks like the municipalities have heeded that and are stepping in. That is certainly important to ensure that the museum continues to operate, but it's not all that's needed.

The most important function of the historical society and the museum isn't something that can be addressed by financial support. The most important thing is collecting the stories and artifacts that illustrate our unique path from the pioneers, to today. That is something that can only be done with passion and the dedication of time.

If you get the chance this summer take some time to visit the museum. If what you see there ignites an interest in learning more about the history of Drayton Valley/Brazeau County then ask how you can get involved.

Dads deserve bonding time too

Last week I stumbled across an article that I thought was timely in light of Father's Day last weekend.

The article, by Sarah Efron (www.sarahEFRON.com), originally appeared on MoneySense.ca, and centres around the stigma fathers who decide to take parental leave can be subjected to. While there are plenty of examples of women suffering career stagnation or setbacks after taking maternity leave, the article notes that, on the whole, society views women taking maternity leave as a positive. Not so for men. According to research referenced in the article, not only do men suffer career consequences, but social consequences as well. To paraphrase, it notes that fathers taking paternity leave can be looked at unfavourably for wanting to stay home with little ones, as unmanly, or even seen as taking time away from a mother and child.

Additional research referenced in the article touches on the positive outcomes of dads taking time to spend with their babies.

Why shouldn't fathers have the same opportunity to spend

There and Back

time with their newborns? Why shouldn't they get the chance to not only have bonding time, but also to experience as much spit up as possible and be up to their elbows in dirty diapers?

As far as I'm concerned it has nothing to do with gender roles. It has to do with a parent wanting to spend as much time as possible with a baby in their first months of development. It's something that should be afforded to any parent or primary caregiver of either gender.

That women and men face career consequences, however subtle or insidious, for taking time to spend with a child they are now responsible for helping develop into a good person, is frankly mindboggling.

To have to face the judgement of co-workers, friends, or strangers is even more ridiculous. Not only is it nobody's business, but it's a reaction that just doesn't make sense.

Parenting is the biggest responsibility a person can take on in their lives. Just as babies are developing quickly in their first months, doesn't it stand to reason that moms and dads are also developing into the kind of parents they will be? It doesn't really seem like the kind of thing you want people to relate to something they do only after office hours.

Maternity and parental leave is not something that works for everyone. Each family is different and should be able to make the decisions that work best for them without having to worry about the whispers at the water cooler. Unfortunately, that's not how we as a society operate. We love to think we can run everyone's lives better than they can.

But if parental leave is something a father wants to do, he should be able to do it free of any stigma. It shouldn't be considered as something, or out of the ordinary, or admirable or praiseworthy — it should be acknowledged as being so logical that no one even gives it a second thought at all.

Look first, then drive

On a fine weekday morning my editor and I decided to go out and get a cup of morning coffee so we could continue through the rest of the day.

So there we go, driving down with some radio on the way and talking about what is new in the 12 hours since we last saw each other. When we get into probably the most unorganized parking lot in town, we try to find a spot for her car and we see a huge truck and trailer parked right next to us, taking up two and a half parking spots. We looked at it, made a face and continued on the mandatory morning mission.

The driver of the trailer was sitting inside and I remember telling Courtney that he's just parked there. Not even getting any coffee. Just wasting two and a half parking spots. In we go and order the usual coffee and hash browns. I'm proud to say that I've converted my boss into liking hash browns. Blah.

We pay up and get out of there. Courtney was inside her car while I was still trying to get my luggage in. In my hands was my wallet, my coffee, my phone, and because I come from a cursed generation.

I opened the car door and put the coffee in the cup holder trying not to spill anything in my boss's car.

Manta's Musings
Manta Lulla

Courtney's car door is still open when the truck and trailer decides to back out of the parking lot. Of course he can do as he pleases, it's a free country. But in the process he jammed her car door right between his side view mirror and his truck.

My heart froze. There it was right in front of me the reason why I may get fined. Why that's it, I lost this new job my mind kept repeating. You're fired. You're done. Go back to Toronto.

The loudest scream comes out of my mouth. The truck driver who's Whoa! Whoa! must've echoed in the entire area, but failed to reach the rat case who was permitted to drive in the province. Finally, what seemed like the slowest seconds later, he realized what he was doing, and stopped.

I scotched down to look for any scratches on my boss's car while trying to bite the universe in my head. Oh please, if this situation passes by, I will be nice to people this entire week, or I will try to be anyway.

There were none. Success. The universe heard. Then I looked at the person who was shall-not-call-names because I'm trying not to get fired, all right? I looked for scratches on that vehicle. None. Pheew.

In the meantime, Courtney got out of her car and looked alongside with me. But what was the guy doing, you ask? Well, let me tell you. He simply continued to stay in his privileged seat. He did not step out of his vehicle. No, it doesn't end there. On top of that, he looks over at Courtney and asks if she could push his mirror back to its original position so he knows its not broken.

Hey, here's an idea you dumbwit, why don't you come out to check your own truck?

Courtney smiled her eyes, and did it for him. The incident was over without any harm but I'm not sure I could call it safe. Well, hello, who would be safe with a driver like that?

Not to say I'm the best of drivers. Not at all. In fact, most times driving on the road, my biggest fear is that me and my car, Lane, will end up on the notorious Opinion Page on Facebook!

Form your own opinion

Brittney's Blur

was an emergency and didn't have time to park to your oh so high standards? Or maybe the driver was 14 years old and it was their first time behind the wheel.

I understand that lots of people take up more than one parking spot, so maybe you can even park to high or too far back, but either way I don't see how it's anyone's responsibility or right to snap a picture and post it online.

Another page we all see all very well aware of is the Drayton Valley Opinion Page. This page is not a bakery. They do not sugar coat anything. If you ask for an opinion, then that is what you will get, don't get mad when it's not what you wanted to hear. Yet sometimes when you ask for an opinion administration will take it down. I didn't know with a tag line that serious you could be so unsure about one opinion. Normally the page is full of grown adults swearing at teenagers. And of course we have plenty of fake accounts with people hiding behind their phone screen or computer monitor too scared to state their opinion with their name beside it, yet always feel the need to add their two cents to every post. And some of the posts are ridiculous: remember that one time when we had to come up with our own opinions? When if you wanted to do something you did it instead of posting it online to see what a bunch of random strangers had to say about it?

Everyone encourages today's youth to be themselves and brush off the negative opinions people might have on your choices, yet the adults of today are begging for opinions because they no longer can make their own decisions.

Measuring up

I just finished reading a blog on my lunch hour about moms who think they are failing as a parent. It resonated with me so much because I also go to sleep at night wondering if what I am doing is good enough.

I ask myself if I work too much, or if getting upset was valid because the garbage wasn't taken out or the dishes weren't done before I got home from work. The important message in the article I read was that moms shouldn't fear that they are failing at being a mother. Ever!

Many amazing moms have a huge amount of anxiety as they tend to relive each interaction they have with their child. Things like "Will the words I chose today scar them for life?" or "Does making soup and sandwiches for supper make me a bad mom?" Having anxiety is an unhealthy way to live and most moms don't have an avenue or the time to de-stress at the end of the day.

For many single moms out there, we tend to become two parents rather than just one, which adds significantly to stress levels. It really doesn't make sense to cram several people into one body to compensate for what is lacking from others, but it happens because we feel we have to, and sometimes, we need to. Moms tend to think that it is important to be the "cookie cutter" type matriarch that we all read about or see in magazines or blogs online. You know the one I mean: the signature 1950s mom with the white apron who is just bringing out the home baked cookies out of the oven. Her hair is groomed and she looks fresh and happy, ready to cater to her family. Society has changed, however the stigma is still out there.

From the Rec Desk

We just don't function as well as we did in the 1950s. Honestly, I wish my kids would think I was crazy if they came home to me smiling and wearing a house dress and an apron!

Large amounts of anxiety make us sick and unable to perform at our best.

How do we get rid of anxiety? Some people get a prescription from the doctor. The healthiest and cheapest way to reduce anxiety is to find time to do what you like doing to be active and recharge your mind. Taking care of ourselves should be a huge focus in taking care of our family. Exercising clears the mind. Feeding the body healthy micronutrients helps to deal with stress throughout the day.

Taking the time for yourself helps to keep anxiety to a minimum. Learning how to organize your family household is key. Create a family schedule to ensure everyone is doing their part in cleaning so you don't have to hound them over and over. Set limits to what you can do and what you can't. Saying "no" is OK and doesn't make you a bad parent.

Around the water cooler...

Welcome to this mid-June edition of the water cooler. We hope you're all enjoying the nice weather. Mother Nature has been blessing us with.

As always, let's start off with some birthday wishes. We want to pass some big belated wishes on to Lyda Sierra, who turned 23 on June 14. Her family shared that she brings much joy and happiness to her friends and family with her bubbly personality. You don't get a better compliment than that! Hope you had a great day Lyda.

We need to pass birthday greetings on to one of our own this week. Hi to Courtney Whalen celebrates on June 17.

Later in the week Caroline Bogni will blow out her candles. Her four sisters wanted to be sure to send out birthday love. Have a wonderful day Caroline!

This week we also have an anniversary to share with you.

Congratulations to Trevor and LenAnne Cox of Sicamous on their 38th wedding anniversary on June 18. The family is sending their love for your special day.

Now, onto other things.

Grade 4 students at Evergreen Elementary have been hard at work creating interpretive signs to inform walkers along the Rotary Pembina Nordic Community Trails. They've had lots of help from Eagle Point Blue Rapids Parks Council and now it's time to unveil the finished project.

The community is invited to come down to the trails (located on 50 Ave. just 15.5 km) at 11 a.m. on June 17 for the opening ceremony. What a great time to congratulate the students on a job well done and explore some of the great trails we have in the community. If you want to take part in the interpretive walk, be sure to dress accordingly. You're also encouraged to bring a bag lunch to enjoy! Great job Grade 4s!

The staff at Addiction and Mental Health want to invite the community to come down and check out their new location in the Community Health Centre. They will be holding an open house on June 19 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. so people can come down, check out the new space, meet the staff and enjoy some refreshments.

Looking for something to keep the kiddies busy for a few days this summer? Registration is open for a number of day camps being hosted by the Town of Drayton Valley. Camps cover a variety of interests from nature to cooking and ages range from 9-17. For more information and to register go online to www.draytonvalley.ca or call Kerry at 780-514-2646. Check for more information on summer camps in next week's edition.

That's all we have room to share with you this time around.

Have a superbly sunny and summery week!

Minister stops by schools

Local schools were on display recently when Alberta Minister of Education Jeff Johnson was in Drayton Valley touring three schools and interacting with students and educators.

He came at the request of MLA Diana McQueen he said last week.

"Your MLA is doing a great job. I enjoy working with her. She requested me to come down."

While in town, Johnson visited Holy Trinity Academy, H.W. Pickup Junior High School and Evergreen Elementary School, along with McQueen and Wild Rose School Division Chair Nancy McClure.

"We visited schools. Spoke to teachers, students and parents. We have some incredible bright young minds and the teachers are doing a fantastic job with them," he said.

He spoke highly of the Grade 4 class he visited at Evergreen Elementary School.

Although Holy Trinity and H.W. Pickup were planned stops, Evergreen was not originally on the agenda and gave Johnson a chance to see the school in its regular routine.

"We were excited and pleased. We didn't expect them so they got to see how it was. Nothing was put on. They were able to see how everything goes on every day," said Evergreen School Principal Scott Kapsch.

At Holy Trinity Academy, he met with the Grade 11 class where McQueen's daughter is a student.

"They came to visit the Grade 11 class. Diana McQueen's daughter is in that class. And Minister wanted to look at the new school. The school has been built five years ago but the Minister hadn't seen it," said Holy Trinity School Principal, Mark Basaraba.

Although students were gone for the day, Johnson also visited H.W. Pickup. During his visit Johnson was able to talk about changes to the math curriculum coming this September.

The issue has been a hotly-debated one over what the best delivery method for the subject is. Johnson said the upcoming changes will give clarity so that teachers can determine the method to use that best fits students, as they deem fit.

"A lot of parents feel memorizing is an important approach, so we're giving clarity that they can go ahead with it," he said.

Every student is different and teachers are professionals. They would be the best judge of which method would benefit the students," he added.

Schools were pleased with the minister's visit.

"It was nice of him to take the time out to come and visit. He came introduced himself and we went to the Grade 11 class. I had a brief conversation with him about direction of education and policies. We talked about policies coming through and (we) let him know we're supporting Inspiring Education," said Basaraba.

Joint council briefs

Courtney Whalen
Western Review

Councillors from the Town of Drayton Valley hosted their colleagues from Brazeau County on June 9 for their quarterly joint council meetings. No decisions are made at the meetings, however councillors are able to discuss issues of joint interest. Last week representatives from the Village of Breton Council were also in attendance.

TALKING TOURISM

Councils continued to talk about the potential for tourism in the area at last week's meeting.

Consultant Dave Dittick was in attendance to share information for the ongoing discussion. Dittick was talking to councillors about the formation of a regional tourism authority and how such an organization could be governed in the future.

The creation of a regional tourism authority was one of the key recommendations from the Regional Tourism Marketing Plan. Envisioned as a public-private partnership managed by a board of directors the authority could operate as an independent entity.

Although Dittick noted that the authority could operate in several different ways, including a non-profit co-operative, or society, he was recommending councils consider setting up the authority as a Municipal Part 9 Corporation.

Dittick said that membership for the authority should consist of representatives from a broad spectrum of tourism operators/businesses and organizations. Those representatives would be elected from specific sectors. Other directors could include those appointed from both municipal councils and other organizations such as the Chamber of Commerce and Eagle Pointe-Blue Rapids Parks Council.

Mayor Glenn McLean said he would like to see a representative from the existing Drayton Valley Tourism and Hospitality Association as an appointed member of an authority's board of directors as it is that organization is anticipated to make on a lead role in the authority.

Currently the association consists of eight hotel/motel operators who collect Destination Marketing Fees on rooms. That money is then earmarked to help promote tourism in the region. At this point the collection of the fees is voluntary for local lodgings.

Coun. Shirley Mahan expressed concern that the area doesn't have the infrastructure such as expanded trails and more campsites, to support greater tourism yet. Dittick said the tourism authority would be tasked with identifying those gaps and looking at ways to address them. The number of hotels and motels collecting Destination Marketing Fees would provide funding for the tourism authority. That money could be augmented with municipal grants, membership fees, or other grants.

"This is just the first step," noted Drayton Valley Chief Administrative Officer Manny Deol.

With councils' go-ahead administration will look at the formation of a regional tourism authority in more detail and begin talking to stakeholders about their involvement.

CAPITAL CONCEPT PRESENTED

Drayton Valley and Brazeau County councils had the chance to look at a concept plan for future public works projects that would involve participation of both municipalities.

Rough cost estimates were set out in the document that included a number of road projects, including the construction of 26th Ave. from Ring Road to 50 St., the possibility of an extension of 50 Ave. down to the North Saskatchewan River and looking at a combined emergency services building. All of the projects are in different stages of exploration with some still needing feasibility studies and others already budgeted for in 2014.

Towns of Drayton Valley, Chief Administrative Officer Manny Deol and Brazeau County Director of Community Services Rick Egan said councils they were simply looking for them to accept the concept. That acceptance doesn't come with any approvals or financial commitment.

EPAC TRANSACTION STILL IN PROGRESS

Work on an agreement that would see Brazeau County become a joint owner of the Eleanor Pickup Arts Centre is still in its draft form.

There was some confusion over information that parties were waiting to determine the assessed value of the facility and its property last week.

Brazeau County Reeve Pat Vos said that municipality's intention is to contribute a set amount of money equal to the Town of Drayton Valley's contributions to date, regardless of the assessed value.

Town of Drayton Valley Mayor Glenn McLean agreed that was also the town's understanding of Brazeau County's commitment.

Once the draft agreement is completed it will go back to the individual councils for review and approval.

COUNTY SUPPORTS RESOLUTION

Brazeau County Council informed Town of Drayton Valley councillors of a resolution it has drafted in conjunction with the local Agriculture Services Board that will be forwarded to the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts and Counties and the provincial Agriculture Services Board.

The resolution calls for the cessation of the use of potable water in fracking operations.

CREATING A RESILIENT COMMUNITY

The Town of Drayton Valley told Brazeau County of plans for the Drayton Valley Social Development Plan to undergo a review to keep the plan current with the evolving community.

Although ahead of its original timeframe for review, it's being undertaken to look at ways to make the municipality a "resilient community."

Part of the process will include working collaboratively with partners including other municipalities, school boards, RCMP, social services organizations and other identified stakeholders to help create the new Social Development Plan—Key to Resiliency.

Local swimmers were all smiles following a very successful start to the Drayton Valley Neptunes season after attending their first competition on June 7 in Westlock.

New season, new coach, new successes

Neptunes bring home 10 medals at season's first competition

Lesley Allen
Western Review

It's a new season for the Drayton Valley Neptunes swim team (Juniors), but that's not all that's new for the youth-based swim team, as a new head coach has taken over the team and is bringing a little international flavour to the water.

Alex Offin originally moved to the area in 2010 and stayed with local friends of the family with no plans of coaching in a clinic, she was planning on moving away until the position with the Neptunes opened up and kept her in the area.

"I moved in Alberta, and Drayton Valley, just under a year ago, so last September, and I had just been swimming to keep my fitness up," she shared. "I knew a local guy, and he heard of the job, so I looked it up and I looked at all of my past history in swimming and my qualifications in study and seemed pretty confident, so I applied for the job."

"I came over and knew the Kishiyah family, so I moved in with them for a bit and helped out with their kids. I was going to move on to Kelowna for a little while but I got the job here so I decided to stay for the summer," Offin added.

Originally from New Zealand, Offin says she grew up in the pool, always having had a passion for swimming and an interest in coaching and education as the go-to.

"Back in New Zealand I studied physical education for four years and so I have a double major in physical education," she explained. "I coached for probably two years after that, so it was like swim teaching more so than coaching, and then I was surrounded by the pool for eight years, I was swimming everyday."

"I have swum for a long time it was a big part of my life," Offin continued. "I'm only 23, I know, but I look back when I was seven and it's where I met all my friends, and it's where I really found my self."

Although her start with the Neptunes was a bit nerve-wracking, Offin says she already feels like a pro and now to the kids as they attended their first competition on June 7 in Westlock. "It was overwhelming to start, but now that I've seen them swim in a competition, they were holding back on me," she said. "Now I'm just like, 'I've seen you swim, swim faster, swim harder.'"

According to Offin the turn out for the team's first competition was a little bit lower than she expected due to other events going on that weekend, but with 19 swimmers bringing home 10 medals she couldn't be prouder of the young athletes.

"They did really well," she said. "I didn't have any expectations because I hadn't seen them swim in competition yet, so I was just like 'make sure you get under this time.'"

"But every single kid had at least one personal best time, and there were kids who were coming up with medals and taking crazy amounts of time off," she added.

With one meet already under their belt, and another one following quickly in Whitcroft on June 14, last week Offin said their were aspects of everybody's swimming that she intended to work on and that setting goals for the year was one of her priorities now that she knows what the young swimmers are capable of.

According to Offin, although swimming is the main focus of the team and upcoming practices, another aspect she wants to work on is the team spirit and the support system the swimmers create for each other during their competitions.

"I want there to be more of a team dynamic, so I want the kids really encouraging each other, especially the older ones that have got all the potential to make it to provincials and regionals," she shared, explaining that swim ming is not just an individual sport but a team one as well.

"I want them to be aware of who's swimming next and I want them cheering at the end of the pool because it makes such a huge difference," added Offin.

This team spirit and support will be of great importance for the team as they also look ahead to hosting an upcoming competition that will see nine other swim teams travel to the Park Valley Pool on June 21.

"I guess it's kind of nerve-wracking in a way because there's always that consciousness that people are looking at you because you're the host team and wondering how you're going to do," said Offin. "So I really want them to walk away, not necessarily on top because that's a pretty big goal, but to walk away proud of themselves so that they have something to show for it."

Offin doesn't believe there will be a hard thing for the team to do as she believes they're a great group of athletes with a lot of promise for the upcoming season.

"They're a bunch of young kids but they're all really hard workers," she said. "The community should really be following them throughout the season because I think they're really going to do well."

New champ crowned at tourney

Oilmen's
Association hosts 49th
golf tournament

Courtney Whalen
Western Review

The weather and course conditions both co-operated June 6-8 as local oilmen took part in the Pembina Oilmen's annual golf tournament.

More than 220 golfers were on hand for the 49th edition of the tournament. The event welcomed many familiar faces, as well as some new blood, all driving for a good time.

Among those who hit the greens at the Drayton Valley Golf Club were Nick Kazmir. No stranger to the annual tournament, this turned out to be his year as he came away as the event champion after a weekend on the course.

Luck was on his side this year; he said of clinching top spot and the accompanying bragging rights.

"I think the first day got the best of some people, so I was lucky that I shot well," said Kazmir.

Now that he's made it to the top he said he'll be back next year to try and repeat.

"To get to defend the title now," he laughed, noting he has a few championships to go before catching up with some of his fellow golfers who have claimed top spot multiple times.

A fun weekend of camaraderie, the tournament also helps raise funds for the Pembina Oilmen's Association, which are distributed back into the community to support other local organizations.

Group to hold session on natural disaster response

Public invited to learn about what's involved when disasters occur

Pemina Area Synergy Group Special to the Western Review

The Pemina Area Synergy Group will be holding a public information session later this month on natural disaster response. Speakers from Brazeau County, Environment and Sustainable Resource Development, Alberta Health Services, and the local industry mutual aid group that are directly involved in responding to local emergency situations will give an overview of the intricacies involved in responding effectively and jointly in emergency situations such as floods and forest fires. Speakers and other attending agency representatives will be answering questions from the audience on the topic as well immediately following the presentations.

"Given the recent fires in the local area, and the flooding last spring in southern Alberta, there has been interest expressed in knowing more about how our local agencies and organizations work together for our safety during these types of emergencies," says the local stakeholder group's facilitator. "What do they do and why? How is it all co-ordinated?"

The event will be held at the Masonic Lodge on June 25 and will kick off with a free barbecue supper at 6 p.m. Presentations will start at 7 p.m. and there will be time before and after to mingle with speakers, responders, and other industry and community members.

The Pemina Area Synergy group is extending an invitation to the public to attend this free barbecue and information session, and ask that anyone planning to attend contact Rick Anderson at 403-847-8086 or rick@rickandersonconsulting.com to RSVP.

NOTEBOOK from pg. 30

ST. ANTHONY

Congratulations to the following students who received information on June 10: Morgan Belcher, Ashley Gray, Jordan Hamer, Anna Kishel, Ian Laves, B. H. Lemermeier, Nathan Montenegro, Lara Orlowski, Ben Piquin, and Asha Wiggins.

The Grade 4 and 8 students will begin final examinations on June 19 to June 24. Prior to the exams, students will be spending a good deal of time preparing, reviewing and studying material that was covered during the school year. It is especially important at this time for our students to be present at school, on time and well rested to ensure they are at their best.

Three performance on the exams is very important and will count toward their overall grade for the year. Please assist us by emphasizing with your child the importance of proper study habits, proper rest, and nutrition.

School fees are past due! If you have not paid your child's fees, please stop by the office or pay fees online, just follow the following steps:

Step 1: Go to <http://stathcschools.ca/online>.

Step 2: Register by clicking the "Get Started Now" and following the steps.

Step 3: After you receive the confirmation email, please select the "click here" option, sign in and add each of your children to your household account.

PAID as follows: Wednesday, June 18 Grade 6 English; PAID Part B Thursday, June 19 Grade 6 math; PAID Friday, June 20 Grade 6 science; PAID Monday, June 23 Grade 6 social studies.

Important reminders: There are NO music recitals available to students in Kindergarten Grade 7.

In the season for several changes of clothing. Parents/guardians can please put an extra change of clothing (socks and underwear included) in your child's backpack or locker.

With the weather so unpredictable, it's better to be safe than sorry.

Parents/guardians, this is a reminder that St. Anthony school does have a dress code for all our students (including Preschool). Students are not to dress in a manner that is revealing.

Shoulder straps need to be at least three fingers wide, shorts and skirts are to be mid-thigh or longer and stomachs and underwear are to be covered. Students dressed inappropriately will be asked to change. If they do not have a change of clothing, they will be contacting you to bring them appropriate clothing. There is a hand-dropped parking spot on the south side of the crosswalk in the front of the school. It is marked with blue paint. Please make sure that you are not parked in this spot as this spot needs to be available for those whom require it.

Please call into a parking spot (where there is no yellow paint) when dropping off or picking up students in the back or front parking lots of the school.

Office hours are 8 a.m.-4 p.m. Parents, please make sure you call the office or email her before leaving your child at school.

Important dates in reminder form are here:

18 Grade 6 PAT language arts Part B, Kindergarten fare well at the school 1 p.m.

19 Grade 7 & 8 math final exam.

19 Mrs. Prentice's class swimming 10-11 a.m.

19 Tim Horton's snack day, Grade 6 PAT math.

20 Admission, Grade 6 PAT science, Grade 7 & 8 social studies final exam, Kindergarten fare well at the school 1 p.m., last day of after school program.

21 Farm safety presentation, Grade 7 & 8 language arts final exam, Grade 7 & 8 gender studies.

21 Grade 1 year end celebration.

26 Grade 7 & 8 awards celebration & family BBQ, last day of classes.

Please check our website <http://stathcschools.ca/online> for up-to-date information.

CHRISTIAN SCHOOL by the D.S. News Team

Last week, the Grade 7 class went to Pioneer Ranch Camp in Rocky Mountain House for their Grade 7 camp. First, they were split into two groups. Group one were more experienced, than the first group who they went first.

Then Group 2 were the ones who had little experience or none at all. The second group groomed the horses first so they could warm up to the horses before they rode them.

*Horseback riding was real fun, but my horse kept meching down for food and I had to fight it," said Valente.

Then we did orienteering we used compasses and road maps. When we learned the skills we did a scavenger hunt only using a map and the compass.

The next day we went wall climbing. We started at the board-tag wall then we hit the actual wall. Almost everyone made it to the top to kiss the losing pole. After that we went canoeing and hiking. We canoeed on the beach and played some games then hiked back.

Finally on the last day we played pickleball and pop it was really fun and we had to look for food and water like a scavenger hunt.

"I had a great time!" exclaimed Rae Lynne.

TOMAHAWK

A huge thank you is extended to Bruce Douglas of Early Rise Soil for the generous donation and delivery of Crystal's special blend soil for our garden. Thank you to Parkland County for gifting us with a compost bin.

*Students were excited to see that the radishes, onions and beets have already sprouted. What will be next?

Here is an additional reminder to parents as their children prepare to write Provincial Achievement Tests.

Please ensure that your child is in attendance, is well rested, eats a hearty breakfast, has a routine morning and is well equipped for these exams. All tests will be written in the morning. Please refer to the schedule below.

June 19 — Grade 6 math

June 20 — Grade 6 science

June 23 — Grade 6 social studies

June 23 — Grade 3 science

June 24 — Grade 4 math

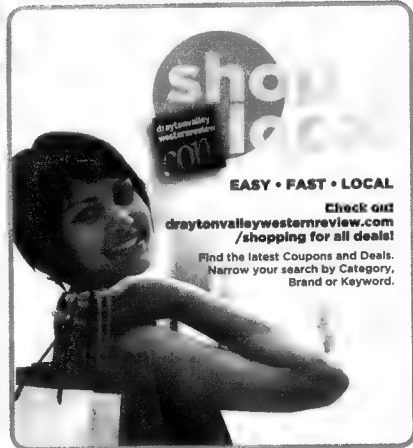

June 25 — Grade 4 language arts Part B

June 26 — Grade 9 social studies

We would like to extend a big thank you to Friends of Tomahawk School and all of the volunteers who came together to put on an amazing breakfast for everyone on Friday morning.

We truly appreciate the time and effort that you put into organizing this event. Not only did this allow us to recognize both our community and business partners but it also brings everyone together to build an even greater sense of community. It is also important to thank our fundraising sponsors who have made a number of projects in the school possible.

We are currently focused on fundraising for a Sensory Room, also known as a Snoezelen Room. The purpose of a Snoezelen Room is to provide a relaxing but stimulating environment that allows students to meet sensory needs and regulate themselves. This is in keeping with Parkland School Division's commitment to inclusion as it related to supporting the student environment.

We would like to extend a special thank you to Sinopee Daylight Energy as they have generously donated $3,000 toward the development of this room. Thank you also to KC Enterprises (Kim and Gloria Yurchak) for their substantial donation of $1,000 toward this same venture. We are still looking to raise more money for this project, so if you would like more information please feel free to contact the school or Tamara Weiss. With Miss Cassidy's assistance, junior high students have been working diligently on creating a yearbook for our school. The yearbook will feature Early Education, Kindergarten and Grade 1-9 students, highlighting field trips, cultural events, classroom activities, Grade 9 trip and so much more. The yearbook promises to capture many treasured memories. If you would like a copy of the 2013/2014 yearbook, please complete the order form that was printed in several of the June newsletters. Please hand in your order forms to Mrs. Gribner to the office with full payment by June 19.

Last week, the Grade 4-5 class participated in their Wonders of Wetlands field trip. We had a blast being pond dippers, wildlife detectives and flora finders. Thank you to the Eagle Point-Blue Rapids Parks Council for offering this free program and to the Friends of Tomahawk for covering the cost of our transportation!

Nurturing nature knowledge

Lesley Allan Western Review
June 12 was a day dedicated to environmental education, but also lots of fun, as local students visit the local Alberta Fish and Wildlife office. While there they learned about plants and trees, wildlife, went on a interpretive hike, and tested out their aim with a wildlife relay race.

SUDOKU

Here's how it works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each column and row. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

A 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
N 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
S 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
W 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
E 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9

HOROSCOPES

ARIES - Mar 21/Apr 20
People seem to be going out of their way to be nice to you, Aries. While you may suspect they have ulterior motives, their kindness really is nothing more than good will.

Taurus - Apr 21/May 21
Taurus, approach your workload with an optimistic attitude this week. You can expect your efforts to produce positive results that don't come without pain.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21
It is an uphill battle to focus on chores this week, Gemini. You would rather be out having fun, but putting off chores now will only lead to more work down the road.

CANCER - June 22/July 21
Cancer, although you are capable of keeping up appearances this week, you will be lost in your own thoughts. Personal issues prove to be a distraction.

LEO - July 22/Aug 23
Leo, serve as a diplomat this week, placing yourself in the middle of conflict because you want to help. Keep a level head and don't get swept into the argument.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22
Virgo, your ability to focus is very strong, but this week you cannot seem to get your mind to cooperate. You may have a million things to think about.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23
You are tempted to stop the party this week, even though you know it is probably a better idea to decline. But the prospect of socializing and having a good time is too tempting.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 23
Scorpio, you often feel uncomfortable when you have too many loose ends. It may take quite a while for you to wrap up all of your obligations before you can relax.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 24/Dec 23
Sagittarius, the more you ponder the decisions you have to make, the more you struggle to determine a positive outcome. Give yourself some breathing room.

CAPRICORN - Dec 24/Jan 20
Career issues must be dealt with, Capricorn. You may have been running through various options, and if you have reached a decision, then go with your gut instincts.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 19
Aquarius, although everyone around you seems to be stirring out, for some reason you are able to breeze through your days without a worry in the world.

PISCES - Feb 20/Mar 20
Your intuition is telling you to proceed with caution, Pisces. Watch where you step, but don't let caution take over your life.

Everything can come up roses if done properly

There is a rumour circulating that rose bush purchases are on the decline. My retail sources have been whispering for several years now that rose bush sales are not what they used to be.

A ROSE IS NOT JUST A ROSE

variety as being fragrant, disease resistant or 'ever blooming' (code for 'colour throughout the summer') then it is not any of these things.

Grown in Canada – Believe it or not, there are roses that are striped in Texas and California and shipped up here, usually in cardboard boxes or plastic bags. By this time in June you might just see a few roses that have just been cracked

WHAT TO AVOID

I speculate that some roses are falling out of favour due to their reputation for black spot, powdery mildew and poor summer flower-ing performance. My advice is to

If it does not say it, it ain't so — if the label does not refer to a rose suited to growing in your garden.

AARS — this stands for 'All America Rose Selection' and it is a standard bearer of great garden performance. Some of my favourite roses are AARS winners, but that is not to say that all AARS are winners in our Canadian gardens.

union' (the knuckle where the main plant meets the root). American labels will often tell you plant with the bud union exposed. Our winters demand that we get that knuckle under some sandy loam.

With several weeks of great rose blooming still ahead of us, now is a great time to plant container grown roses. When you shop for rose bushes this time of year you can often see the actual rose in bloom. There is no question about its colour or fragrance. Note that hot, dry weather in summer generally causes roses to take a rest from their intense late spring flowering period, but there is a second wind of flowering that occurs in September through to the hard frost of November.

If winterizing your roses is not on your gardening agenda then I would suggest that you check out the Canadian bred Explorer series of roses. None of these need to be heaped up with soil come late autumn. I like David Thompson best and have a hedge of them in

Keep in mind that all roses require at least six hours of sun per day and they enjoy a rich but well drained soil. I add about 1/3 sharp sand to my planting mix.

And this weekend is the perfect time to purchase and plant Cana-
